Governor’s Volunteer Awards

Volunteer Iowa is now accepting nominations for the Governor’s Volunteer Awards deadline is April 30.

The Governor’s Volunteer Award recognizes individual volunteers who have made a significant contribution to the state through their volunteer efforts. Nominees are chosen by county and regional boards, based on the information provided on the Governor’s Volunteer Award nomination form. The Governor’s Volunteer Awards are presented to one Outstanding Volunteer, one Outstanding Youth Volunteer, one Outstanding Community Volunteer, and one Outstanding Corporation Volunteer.

Volunteer Iowa is the state’s largest provider of volunteer opportunities for people looking to give back to their communities. Through the Governor’s Volunteer Awards, individuals and organizations who have made significant contributions to Iowa through volunteer efforts are recognized and celebrated.

Meet New AmeriCorps Programs Officer Elizabeth Medina

Elizabeth Medina (née Huffman) started as an AmeriCorps Program Officer with Volunteer Iowa on February 5. She is the first AmeriCorps Programs Officer in Volunteer Iowa’s history. She is responsible for developing new programs, supporting current programs, and overseeing the monitoring and technical assistance aspects of those programs.

Elizabeth is a recent graduate of Drake University’s College of Humanities and Social Sciences with a degree in Communication Studies.

Volunteer Iowa is now accepting nominations for the Governor’s Volunteer Awards, with a deadline of April 30. The Governor’s Volunteer Award recognizes individual volunteers who have made a significant contribution to the state through their volunteer efforts. Nominees are chosen by county and regional boards, based on the information provided on the Governor’s Volunteer Award nomination form. The Governor’s Volunteer Awards are presented to one Outstanding Volunteer, one Outstanding Youth Volunteer, one Outstanding Community Volunteer, and one Outstanding Corporation Volunteer.

Volunteer Iowa is the state’s largest provider of volunteer opportunities for people looking to give back to their communities. Through the Governor’s Volunteer Awards, individuals and organizations who have made significant contributions to Iowa through volunteer efforts are recognized and celebrated.

Meet New AmeriCorps Programs Officer Elizabeth Medina

Elizabeth Medina (née Huffman) started as an AmeriCorps Program Officer with Volunteer Iowa on February 5. She is the first AmeriCorps Programs Officer in Volunteer Iowa’s history. She is responsible for developing new programs, supporting current programs, and overseeing the monitoring and technical assistance aspects of those programs.

Elizabeth is a recent graduate of Drake University’s College of Humanities and Social Sciences with a degree in Communication Studies.

Volunteer Iowa is now accepting nominations for the Governor’s Volunteer Awards, with a deadline of April 30. The Governor’s Volunteer Award recognizes individual volunteers who have made a significant contribution to the state through their volunteer efforts. Nominees are chosen by county and regional boards, based on the information provided on the Governor’s Volunteer Award nomination form. The Governor’s Volunteer Awards are presented to one Outstanding Volunteer, one Outstanding Youth Volunteer, one Outstanding Community Volunteer, and one Outstanding Corporation Volunteer.

Volunteer Iowa is the state’s largest provider of volunteer opportunities for people looking to give back to their communities. Through the Governor’s Volunteer Awards, individuals and organizations who have made significant contributions to Iowa through volunteer efforts are recognized and celebrated.

Meet New AmeriCorps Programs Officer Elizabeth Medina

Elizabeth Medina (née Huffman) started as an AmeriCorps Program Officer with Volunteer Iowa on February 5. She is the first AmeriCorps Programs Officer in Volunteer Iowa’s history. She is responsible for developing new programs, supporting current programs, and overseeing the monitoring and technical assistance aspects of those programs.

Elizabeth is a recent graduate of Drake University’s College of Humanities and Social Sciences with a degree in Communication Studies.

Volunteer Iowa is now accepting nominations for the Governor’s Volunteer Awards, with a deadline of April 30. The Governor’s Volunteer Award recognizes individual volunteers who have made a significant contribution to the state through their volunteer efforts. Nominees are chosen by county and regional boards, based on the information provided on the Governor’s Volunteer Award nomination form. The Governor’s Volunteer Awards are presented to one Outstanding Volunteer, one Outstanding Youth Volunteer, one Outstanding Community Volunteer, and one Outstanding Corporation Volunteer.

Volunteer Iowa is the state’s largest provider of volunteer opportunities for people looking to give back to their communities. Through the Governor’s Volunteer Awards, individuals and organizations who have made significant contributions to Iowa through volunteer efforts are recognized and celebrated.

Meet New AmeriCorps Programs Officer Elizabeth Medina

Elizabeth Medina (née Huffman) started as an AmeriCorps Program Officer with Volunteer Iowa on February 5. She is the first AmeriCorps Programs Officer in Volunteer Iowa’s history. She is responsible for developing new programs, supporting current programs, and overseeing the monitoring and technical assistance aspects of those programs.

Elizabeth is a recent graduate of Drake University’s College of Humanities and Social Sciences with a degree in Communication Studies.

Volunteer Iowa is now accepting nominations for the Governor’s Volunteer Awards, with a deadline of April 30. The Governor’s Volunteer Award recognizes individual volunteers who have made a significant contribution to the state through their volunteer efforts. Nominees are chosen by county and regional boards, based on the information provided on the Governor’s Volunteer Award nomination form. The Governor’s Volunteer Awards are presented to one Outstanding Volunteer, one Outstanding Youth Volunteer, one Outstanding Community Volunteer, and one Outstanding Corporation Volunteer.

Volunteer Iowa is the state’s largest provider of volunteer opportunities for people looking to give back to their communities. Through the Governor’s Volunteer Awards, individuals and organizations who have made significant contributions to Iowa through volunteer efforts are recognized and celebrated.